LINCOLN'S FRIEND

Death of John G. Nicolay, His Private Secretary and Biographer.

SKETCH OF HIS NOTABLE CAREER

Man of High Accomplishments and Sturdy Character.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS

Mr. John G. Nicolay, private secretary to President Lincoln, and, in collaboration with John Hay, present Secretary of State, the author of the biography of that great man, died late yesterday afternoon, after a lingering illness, at his residence, No. 212 B street southeast. He was in his seventieth year. Mr. Nicolay had been in feeble health for several years, and since 1887, when he resigned his position as marshal' of the United States Supreme Court, has been leading a retired life. He spent last winter in Europe, returning in the spring with his health much impaired. Since May he was confined to his bed and for some time his case had been regarded as hopeless by his family physician, Dr. J. W. Bayne, and Dr. W. W. Johnston, who was lately called in consultation. Death was due to general debility. Mr. Nicolay is survived by a daughter, Miss Helen Nicolay, who has attained recognition as an artist of much merit, but who in the recent past has devoted herself entirely to munistering to her father. istering to her father. Mr. Nicolay was a Bavarian, having been born at Essingen February 26, 1832. He was the son of John and Helena Nicolay. The family emigrated to America in 1838, and first made its home in Cincinnati. La-ter the Nicolays removed to Indiana, Missouri and Illinois, successively. When the boy was fourteen years old his parents died and he was thrown upon his own re-sources. He had received an elementary sources. He had received an elementary education, and after serving as a clerk in a small store in St. Louis for a short time he went to Pittsfield, Pike county, Ill., and started to learn the printer's trade in the office of the Free Press, a weekly county paper. His advancement was rapid. After mastering the art preservative he became successively publisher, editor and proprietor of the journal. The vigorous characteristics which he displayed in this field attracted general attention to him and he rapidly became a political power in Illinois. rapidly became a political power in Illinois.

He relinquished his paper to take a position in the office of Charles Hatch, then secretary of state of Illinois, at the state capital, Springfield.

His Meeting With Lincoln.

Here he met Abraham Lincoln and formed the acquaintance that was to ripen into the most intimate of friendships. During the presidential campaign of 1860 Mr. Lincoln made Mr. Nicolay his private secretary, and he was a potent factor in that memorable contest. He was constantly with Mr. Lincoln from the time of the latter's nomination until his inauguration, and during the perilous period that followed he enjoyed the same intimate and responsible relations with the President. It was at Mr. Nicolay's suggestion that John Hay became a member of Lincoln's official family, as executive clerk, and the friendship between the two was warm and intimate to the last.

Made Consul at Paris.

Upon the beginning of President Lincoln's second term he appointed Mr. Nicolay United States consul at Paris and Mr. Hay secretary of the American legation at the same capital. Mr. Nicolay was in Charleston, S. C., returning from a vacation trip to Cuba, when he was informed of President Lincoln's assassination. A celebration had been planned in honor of the raising of the American flag over Fort Sumter. four years before, by Maj. Anderson, and Mr. Nicolay had been invited to be the lat-ter's guest. He hurried at once to Washter's guest. He hurried at once to Washington, however, reaching here barely in time to attend the obsequies.

Previous to sailing for his post in Paris in the fall of 1865 Mr. Nicolay wedded Miss Therena Bates of Pittsfield, Ill. Two children were born to them, a son who died in infancy and the daughter who survives. Mrs. Nicolay died sixteen years ago. Mr. Nicolay served as consul at Paris four years, and when he returned went west again. He was living in comparative retirement in 1872 when he was tendered the position of marshal of the United States Supreme Court, which he filled for fifteen years, resigning, as stated, in 1887.

The History of Lincoln. While in Paris Mr. Nicolay and Mr. Hay determined to write the biography of Abraham Lincoln, and they began then to gather and prepare the materials for their great work. The actual writing was commenced in 1874, and twelve years later, in November, 1886, "Abraham Lincoln; A History," began publication in the Century Magazine, and was continued until 1890. In the latter year the work, including many important chapters which did not appear serially, was published in ten volumes. Four years later Messrs. Nicolay and Hay issued a catalogued and edited "Abraham Lincoln's Complete Works." Mr. Nicolay wrote the article on Presi-

"JUDGE OF A THING HALF DONE."

This is particularly applicable in cases wher persons seriously troubled from the effects of coffee drinking and who take up Postum Food Coffee in its place, attempt to make the new beverage with a little hot water and two or three boiling. That sort of a "lick and a promise" produces a drink that is simply exaspe ating. It is flat and tasteless, whereas the person who will boil the Postum full fifteen minutes after the actual bubbling and boiling begins, will have a beverage that is something.

There is a point between twelve and fifteen minutes of boiling, when the character of Postum is changed, the food value is extracted and the demore expensive grades of Java coffee is produced.

A lady in Salem, Ore., says: "Whenever I drank coffee at night, I always passed a restless, wakeful night. Extreme nervousness and a weak stomach have followed me ever since I have been using coffee. Finally I got into such a state that I suffered intensely, and when a physician was called, he inquired, among other things, if I drank coffee and insisted that I leave it off. I did so and took up tea, which I found almost as bad. Finally took up tea, which I found aimost as Dau, Finally husband brought home a package of Postum, and we tried it (strictly according to directions, for we believe in the adage that 'Children and fools judge of a thing half done').

The new coffee was delicious, and from that day
